WEDNESDAY, July 10, 1751.

From the GENTLEMAN's MAGAZINE for February, 1751.

Extract of a Letter ſent to Copenhagen, by a Daniſh Miſſionary at Tranquebar, in the Eaſt Indies, with an Account of the Funeral Solemnities of an Indian King.

THIS Prince, who was 80 Years old, dying, his Wives and Concubines, in Number 47, were, according to this Cuſtom of the Country, to be burnt on his Funeral Pile. In order to this, they dug without the Walls of the Imperial City, a large Pit, which they filled with Wood, ranged and piled up, as for a Bonfire. The Corpſe of the deceaſed, richly habited and adorned, was brought forth in great Pomp, and laid on the Pile; after which the Bramins (Heathen Prieſts) kindled the Fire with Abundance of ſuperſtitious Ceremonies. The Wives and Concubines of the Deceaſed, finely deck'd with Jewels, and adorned with Flowers, walked ſeveral Times round the Funeral Pile. The favourite Wife, or Concubine, carried the Poniard of the defunct Prince, which ſhe delivered up to the Succeſſor, and made a ſhort Speech, exhorting him to uſe it with Moderation, ſo as never to let it light on any but the Guilty. Then ſhe boldly turned her Face towards the Pile, and, after invoking her Gods, leaped into the midſt of the Flames. The Second was the Siſter of a Prince, named Tadamen, who was preſent at theſe horrid Rites. She gave him the Jewels which ſhe wore, and the Prince in receiving them, embraced her moſt tenderly, and poured out a Flood of Tears; but the Princeſs, without betraying the leaſt Concern, looked alternately, with a ſteady Countenance, on the Pile, and on the Spectators, and crying with a loud Voice, Chiva! Chiva! which is the Name of one of her Gods, ſhe jumped as reſolutely in the Flames as the firſt did. The others followed her cloſe. Some of them appeared reſolute enough, but others looked wild and dejected; one in particular being more diſmayed than her Companions, ran to embrace one of the Spectators who was a Chriſtian, praying him to ſave her; but this was not in his Power to do, and the poor Wretch was tumbled headlong into the Fire. However intrepid moſt of theſe unhappy Victims appeared jumping into the Pit, they ſhriek'd hideouſly amidſt the Flames, tumbling one over another, ſtriving to reach the Edge of the Pit; but they were kept in, by throwing Heaps of Billets and Faggots upon them, as well to knock them on the Head, as to encreaſe the Fire. When they were conſumed, the Bramins drew near the yet ſmoaking Pile, and performed Abundance of ridiculous Ceremonies over the Aſhes of the poor Wretches. The next Day they gathered up the Bones, and having wrapt them up in fine Linnen, and carried them to a Place near the Iſle of Ramſeuren, where they caſt them into the Sea. After this, the Pit was filled up, and a Temple ſince erected on the Spot, where Sacrifices are offer'd up, in honour of the Prince and his Wives, who, from henceforth are number'd among the Saints, or Goddeſſes.

This dreadful Story, which, ſurely, no human Being can read without Pity, and no Chriſtian without Indignation, is a ſtriking Inſtance of the horrid Effects of Superſtition, and the Force of Enthuſiaſm. However, it does not appear that this Indian Cuſtom is a religious Ceremony, but founded upon a ſtrong Perſuaſion of the Immortality of the Soul, and intended to accomodate the deceaſed Huſband with the Company of his Wives into the other World. How this Cuſtom was firſt eſtabliſhed, perhaps is not to be diſcovered; but the Motives from which it is continued, are aſſigned by M. Voltaire, to the Influence of the Prieſts, to whom all the Jewels and valuable Ornaments of the unhappy Victims belong, as a Perquiſite.

HAMBURGH, April 13.

LETTERS from Armenian Merchants in Perſia to their Correſpondent in Poland, are full of the diſmal Conſequences of the Confuſions which have over-run that Kingdom. The opulent and ſplendid City of Iſpahan is reduced to an inexpreſſible Deſolation, the Palaces all ranſacked or burnt. The ſtately Edifices with which the great Schah Abbas had embelliſhed this Capital, have been utterly ſpoiled and diſfigured by the Savage Soldiery. Schah Doub, one of the Competitors, who had prevailed with his Army to ſpare Iſchargrab, an old Seat of Schah Noub, his Adverſary, in an Interval of Superiority, gave it up to the Licentiouſneſs of his Soldiers. The Arts and Sciences of Peace are at a ſtand; nor is any Trade exerciſed but ſuch as furniſh the Neceſſaries of War, or miniſter to the Luxury of Camps. The Soldier lords it over the Citizen, and ſo inhuman are the Maxims of Policy, that the other Aſiatic Powers, inſtead of meditating to end our Miſeries, exult at the Feuds of a once redoubted Empire.

Venice, March 26. An Augmentation of our Maritime Forces will certainly take Place, that we may be able to ſend to Sea a formidable Squadron; for, from the Motions of the Turks, 'tis expected that ſome Enterprize is meditating, notwithſtanding the repeated Aſſurances of the Ottoman Porte to maintain a good Intelligence with all the Powers of Chriſtendom.

Warſaw, March 27. We have now received a clear Account of the Motions of the Turks at Choczam. The Janizaries, it ſeems, are extremely diſcontented, partly from a Suppoſition that the Court does not mean them exceedingly well, and next, becauſe they are but indifferently paid; which together, induced them to mutiny. The firſt Exploit was, throwing their Aga into a Town Ditch, and the next to ſeize upon the Perſon of the Baſhaw, but he had the good Fortune to get into the Citadel, where he is in a Condition to defend himſelf; they then plundered the Town and the adjacent Villages, and afterwards inclin'd to have attacked our Frontiers; but as we did not at firſt know what the Meaning was of this Buſtle at Choczam, a conſiderable Body of Troops had been ordered by the Crown General that Way, which ſaved the Country, as the Janizaries were bent not on fighting, but thieving. Their Aga was ſo lucky as to get out of the Town Ditch, and got ſafe to Conſtantinople. What Reſolution the Porte will take concerning this Mutiny, is not yet known.

An Extract of a Letter from the Hague, dated Feb. 28.

We flattered ourſelves here, that the Affair of the Tariff with France was going to be determined; but ſo far it is from being ſo, that the moſt Chriſtian King has juſt now not only eſtabliſhed the Duty of 50 Sols per Ton upon our Shipping, but by charging them much more than they carry, it is made to amount to near five Florins. His Majeſty has alſo eſtabliſhed a Duty of Twenty per Cent. upon the Merchandize of the Levant. This is a Stroke more than is neceſſary for ruining our Commerce with France. His Majeſty cannot revenge himſelf upon England for the Steps which are taking in the Empire; he therefore diſcharges his Wrath upon the Republic for taking Part with the King of Great Britain in the Treaties with Cologn, Bavaria and Saxony; and our Affairs are in ſuch a Situation, that we dare not lift up our Heads. It is evident France has determined to chaſtiſe the Dutch; but without publicly ſaying ſo.

Paris A-la-main, April 9. Yeſterday being Holy Thurſday the King waſhed the Feet of twelve poor Men, and his Majeſty waited upon them at Table. The Diſhes were carried in by the Dauphin and the other Princes of the Blood. The Queen did the like by twelve poor Women, and the Dishes were carried in by the Ladies of France and other Princesses of the Blood.

We have received here from London the News of the Death of the Prince of Wales, for whose Death after the Holidays, the whole Court will go into Mourning.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, March 26.

Our Letters from Petersburg and Berlin confirm, that the Troops of the two Powers are in full March towards their respective Frontiers, in order to observe each other, until one of them shall think fit to begin the War. Our last Advices from France have no less a warlike Aspect than those from the North, since we are told by them, that the greatest Part of the Kingdom have Orders to join those who are upon the Frontiers of the Empire and of Brabant, to be ready, it is said, to assist the Allies of his most Christian Majesty, in case they should happen to be engaged in a War.

Extract of a Letter from Hamburgh,

The great military Preparations, which have lately been made, and which are still making, as well by the King of Prussia, as by the Court of Petersburg, cause many People here to think, that a War in the North is inevitable. There are indeed some who judge otherwise, and look upon these cautious Measures as the only Means of preventing a Rupture. These last are of Opinion, that so long as the Empress of Russia keeps herself prepared for all Events, the King of Prussia will have more Prudence than to meddle with her; as it would be like an Earthen Pot jostling against an Iron one; and on the other Hand, her Imperial Czarish Majesty is more moderate and calm than to begin the Quarrel.

LONDON.

Extract of a private Letter from Venice, Feb. 23.

An Affair has happened here, which shows to how great a Degree the Human Mind may be corrupted, and to what Excesses Persons are capable of going, who have lived long in a Habit of Vice. Francisco Panizo, by Birth a Neapolitan, who had discharged, for seven Years in the Palace of one of our Nobles, the Post of Maitre d'Hotel, or Steward, with a tolerable fair Character, went on the 12th of January to a House near the Church of St. Pertiniani, in which a Gentlewoman whose Name was Angelica, and with whom he had long had an Intrigue, was residing in a handsome Apartment. They were seen by the Neighbours to go out together to a Ball, supped afterwards at a public House, from whence Panizo conducted her home, and is supposed to have promised he would make her another Visit that Night.

Having digested his black Design in his Head, he return'd again to his Master's House, and after the Family were gone to Rest, went out again to visit his Mistress, from whose Lodgings he was seen to go in the Morning with a Bundle under his Cloak. He proceeded directly to his Master's, where immediately after Dinner he packed up all the Plate he had in his Custody, and about 3 o'Clock took Water. His Gondolo carried him to the End of the Canal, where he got into a large Boat, with four Rowers, which Boat set him on Shore in the Ferarese. The next Day, being missing, the Nobleman, in whose Service he was, caused his Room to be broke open and found all his Plate gone. Two Days after the Neighbours gave intelligence to the Magistrates, that Angelica was missing with her Servant. Upon this, an Officer, with proper Assistants, were sent to the House where she lodged, to visit her Apartment, the Door of which they found carefully locked, and the Windows shut up.

In pursuance of their Instructions they proceeded to break into the Room, were they found that unfortunate Woman lying on the Floor, by her Bedside, in her Shift, with five Wounds in her Bosom, and the whole Chamber almost covered with Blood. In the next Room they found her Servant in the same Condition, except that she had ten Wounds. Every Trunk and Box in both Rooms were broke open, and all Things of Value gone. The Neighbourhood unanimously fixed this Murder on Panizo, whose Intrigue with Angelica was not at all a Secret.

The Council of Eleven being informed of what the Officers of Justice had seen, and of the Person who was suspected, an Officer with a certain Number of Sbirri, were dispatched in pursuit of him. They followed him so close, that at length they came up with him at Pisa, where he was secured, and upon an Application to the Regency of Tuscany, in the Name of the Republic, deliver'd and brought back hither under a Guard. Yesterday having confessed both the Robberies and Murders, the following Sentence was passed on him, viz.

To be carried through the Streets of this City, and to have his Flesh torn off with Pincers at five different Places, then to have his Hands chopped off, and to be dragged at a Horse's Tail into the great Square, where he is to lose his Head on a Scaffold, and to be quartered; the Head to be fixed on a Pole, and the Quarters to be set up in the usual Places.

April 4. It is said that a Proposal has been made to his Grace the Duke of Athol, who is Proprietor of the Isle of Man, for the Purchase thereof, in order to annex the same to the Crown of Great Britain, great Inconveniences having been found to arise from its been alienated; for it is asserted, that it serves for a Storehouse or Magazine to the French for Wines, Teas, &c. they running the same from thence to England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland; and that the Loss to this Nation, as the Gains to the French, are thereby inexpressibly great. The late Purchase by the Crown of the hereditary Jurisdictions in Scotland, and the Benefits already evident therefrom, as well as the Example of the French King, who lately gave an immense Price to the Belle-Isle Family for the Purchase of the Island of that Name, is urged to evince the Expedience of entering into such an Agreement at present; to which, it is said, his Grace, who was always zealous to promote his Country's Welfare and Happiness, is not averse.

ANNAPOLIS.

The latest Papers from England, are not yet come to our Hands; but we are informed, they contain the melancholy Account of the Death of the Lord BALTIMORE, Proprietor of this Province, at his Seat at Erith in Kent, on the 23d Day of April last, after a lingering Illness. And is succeeded in Title and Estate by his only Son FREDERICK, now Lord Baltimore, a Minor.

About a Fortnight ago, a melancholy Accident happened in Potowmack River: Mr. Hicks of St. Mary's County, having been on board the Ship Virginia-Hope, just arrived from New York, to visit Capt. Kenner his Brother-in-Law, and being landed again in Maryland, the Boat on her return to the Ship, overset, and a Clerk of Mr. Hicks's, a Man before the Mast, and the Boatswain, who were in the Boat, were thrown into the River, about the middle of it, and in a few Minutes the two former catching hold of one another, sunk down in sight of the latter; who, being a good Swimmer, made towards the Shore for some Time, but finding his Strength and Spirits failing, and being far from Shore, returned to the Boat, which having observed to float bottom upwards, got on it, and remained there for two Hours: and no Opportunity offering for his Relief, he again plunged into the Watery Element, and, just as he had exhausted all his Power, got safe ashore near Wicomico in Virginia.

Yesterday arrived here, after a long Passage, from London, the Ship Happy Jennitt, Capt. Richardson, for Patapsco. He has brought in Ten Indented and Fifty Convicted Servants.

The Captains Sedgwick and Power are arrived in Patuxent, and Johnson in Potowmack.

Annapolis, July 10, 1751.

WHEREAS a most wicked, violent and audacious Crime was committed in the Night of the 2d Instant, by breaking open the House of Mr. Charles Cole of this City, binding and threatening him in his Bed with the Loss of Life, unless he would discover or deliver his Money; and altho' the Persons concerned were frightened from putting their more execrable Designs in Execution, and afterwards made their Escape, yet as the Lives and Property of every Individual can only be preserved from such Villainies by the Discovery and Punishment of the Offenders: Therefore, for the better discovery of the Actors of the said Villainy, I do hereby Promise to pay, to any Person or Persons who shall discover them, or any of them, upon his or their Conviction, the Sum of Eighty Pounds Current Money; and that in Case any of the Accomplices (other than the Person who broke into Mr. Cole's Room) shall discover the other Offenders, or any of them, that upon his or their Conviction, the Accomplice making such Discovery, shall have the same Reward; and I am impowered by his Excellency the Governor, to assure him of a Pardon.

Mr. GREEN; Baltimore Town, June 29. 1751.

AS I have been unjustly accused with breaking open a Packet of Letters, directed to Mr. Thomas Harrison, I desire you will communicate the Fact to the Public, which has given Rise to the unjust Charge, as it really happen'd, that my Conduct in that Affair may be impartially and fairly judg'd of: The Case was thus, On Tuesday the 25th Day of June, one Mr. Shepherd brought a parcel of Letters and Packets into Mr. John Ensor's Store in this Place, and a bundle of Letters tied with Packthread (but not sealed) Directed, [Letters for Baltimore-Town, to the care of Mr. Thomas Harrison;] which Bundle was supposed to consist of Letters for People hereabouts, and to have been made up on board the Ship in which they came, after her arrival in the Country, and not in England, as was truly the Case. Mr. Harrison being then at Annapolis, and the Bundle with so general a Direction [Letters for Baltimore Town] and myself and others expecting we had Letters in it, I untied the said Bundle in the Presence of Mr. Ensor, and Mr. Philpot's Clerk, and took out a Letter for a Friend of mine, to whom I had an Opportunity of conveying it, and Mr. Philpot's Clerk took out three more for his Friends, and then tied up the Bundle again and delivered it to the said Shepherd; which, I think, no Gentleman cou'd take amiss, as Affairs were circumstanced. Your giving this a Place in your Paper will oblige,

Your humble Servant,
CHARLES ALDEN.
